

Indigita launches a new e-shop for financial professionals and extends its online training business into the B2C space

Geneva, 5 April 2022 – Swiss regtech company Indigita SA has launched a new e-Learning web shop to offer individual financial professionals direct and easy access to its comprehensive catalogue of recognised online training solutions. The new platform makes it easier than ever for independent financial advisors to meet mandatory training requirements and keep their professional knowledge up to date.

The launch of Indigita's globally available e-shop for individuals represents a strategic extension of the company's successful educational business into the B2C market and facilitates the creation of direct client relationships with end-users of its training solutions. The new e-commerce platform has been developed in response to a sharp increase in demand from individual financial professionals for Indigita's widely recognised and certified e-Learning solutions.

The new e-shop has been designed to offer independent financial advisors a convenient and effective way to build up expert knowledge and cover their continuing education needs. The e-Learning web shop provides an extensive portfolio of on-demand online courses that cover compliance topics, cross-border rules for specific countries, risk topics, as well as cross-cultural competence and etiquette.

The platform features a selection of courses that offer holders of an SAQ-certificate a straightforward way to obtain credits for their mandatory recertification process. The majority of trainings has been developed in collaboration with the leading regulatory knowledge provider BRP Bizzozero & Partners SA and offers a blend of theory and interactive elements to create an engaging learning experience.

Indigita's corporate offering for organisations that procure training solutions for their staff in a centralised manner remains unchanged.
